The Learning Commons supports students in meeting their learning goals through services such as individual meetings with a dedicated learning assistant, walk-in hours in math and science, and peer study groups.

Study support for any class is available by request for any student enrolled in a credit course at Kirkwood. There is no charge to the learner, and study support is available every term.

Additional support is also available 24/7 online from www.brainfuse.com (<http://www.brainfuse.com>). Links are available on the learning commons website and within TALON.

Many learning assistants are Kirkwood students who are paid by the college for their services. Students interested in being learning assistants may apply through the Learning Commons office.
